353 TO COME

Some "Dont's" in Cardiac Therapeutics—(Continued).

Don't forget that digitalis, strophanthus, strychnine and caffeine are the most effective heart stimulants, and that nearly everything in the line of heart stimulation can be accomplished by them if they are correctly exhibited.

Don't use nitroglycerin in cardiovascular disease to reduce blood pressure if the kidneys are much sclerosed, but do not fail to use it freely if coronary sclerosis is present.—Med. Review of Reviews.
