

of their bodies had melted and then it had frozen again so I was about half an hour scrubbing them off dry. After breakfast which we had about ten o'clock I got ready and went down to Auntie's getting there about noon. The gas down there was poor but the house was fairly comfortable. Mr. Millman was still in bed but Mrs. Millman had just got up and had dinner with us. They nearly froze in the night and Mr. Millman got up and wrapped Auntie Alice's sweaters around his head. After dinner I went up to see Marj. but came back to Auntie's to see Nobby was there and decided he'd stay to tea as he didn't think he would get anything to eat at home on account of the poor flies. I didn't see any body that was at church this morning but I went up to night but found there was no church so went over and spent the evening at the movies. I stayed all night at Auntie's so I would be able to shovel the snow in the morning. It moderated considerably by night.

Monday January 14th

I got up fairly early this morning and shovelled Auntie's snow and then had my breakfast down there so got home about half past eight but Dad was finished milking the spent most of the morning shovelling through various snow drifts and Dad shovelled it out of the wood shed. We had quite a job shovelling the lane out but got it done by noon. This afternoon Frank went down to the mill with some grit and Tom was in for awhile on his way after cream. I cleaned out the calf pen and Dad split up some wood. To night Frank and I went down to see "Geckie" at the picture show but the films are storm bound some place so they put on the Saturday night show which was very poor. Mr. Millman went to Simcoe to-day as the ladies got running by one o'clock but there hasn't been a G.P.R. train moving in or out of here all day so he came back to Dover to night and he & Mrs. Millman will go by electric car to Brantford to-morrow and get through to Toronto from there. We were sure there would be no classes to-day as I didn't go down. Jeff couldn't get down till this afternoon from Simcoe and none of the boys could get in from far out in the country. They said Lloyd Repree was up here to dinner yesterday as he was visiting the neighbors to see how they survived the storm and he told them that Harry Dyer and old Mr. Mead nearly perished in the storm Saturday night. They had been out working at the inside of Gae's new lane and he was driving them in at night but after the horse
