Treatment of Ivy Poisoning.

As soon as the symptoms of itching and redness appear, wash the spots thoroughly with green soap and a brush, followed with thorough washing with 98 per cent. grain alcohol. R. T. Morris says that one treatment when used early cures the condition almost immediately. Dr. Morris writes this from personal experience after having been an annual sufferer for years. Having tried it on a number of cases besides his personal experience, he found the above treatment to afford the most rapid and perfect results obtained from any remedy he has ever tried.—*Journ. A.
