Ray came over to the Woodens with me and later came over here and stayed to tea Enah drove him home with Mexico about dark and brought Ted back with her. Very hot & very windy.

Monday July 28th

Frank cut hay out by the side road all morning and Dad and I hoed potatoes this afternoon. Frank started to rake the hay and leave the potatoes of alsike. I went out when I thought he had enough raked to cock up but the wind was so strong I could not do any thing with it so I came back and started to hoe the potatoes. Dad took the buggy down town after dinner so he thought one of the axles was sprung. He noticed it the other night when I was driving out and told me that the wheels didn't track. He took it to Joe Howells and had him come out and look at it while Joe was trying to figure out what was the matter. Alan Law who was in the shop burst forth in a loud peal of merriment and informed Dad that the wheels were changed and sure enough that proved to be the case, some one to play a trick, had changed the front and hind wheel on the offside and we had never discovered it. I suppose it has been done when Frank had it at the garden party a while ago. About five o'clock Dad, Enah and Ted started off for Charlotteville to pickuckle berries as they had a card the other day from George Bradley inviting them up. Frank and I got the chores done up fairly well and then I went down to band practice. Aunt Nancy died last night. Aunt Ida is back

Frank and I got up after five this morning and went out to see what we could do with the alsike patches. There was no dew but the stuff was tough. He decided to rake it up and I hunched a little and then went after the cows. Frank cooked some breakfast and went out to mow right after but I did chores in the house and barn. I washed up all the dishes and the separator and the bed and swept out the kitchen. This took me the biggest part of the morning and then I went out to cock up but the wind was so strong I could not so I picked out some of the same dock. Frank had to go thrashing down at Sam Law's this afternoon so I took Harry & Queen and went out to finish
