

post-cards. Had a little run on the water later in the day.

Aug 6th Monday. Went with the family to the supply boat in the morning. Everybody helps themselves. They have great faith in the honesty of the public. Waited for the mail. In the afternoon Nell and Dick borrowed the "putt putt" to go to Port Carling to rent one for themselves. They left Dorothy at Elgin House to visit Margie Henderson and Charles and Jack at the club to play golf. Colare and I stayed home and I finished "The Middle Temple Murder" by J. S. Fletcher, wrote to Charlie and Mr. Caldwell and started another little play for Terma. "Out-Door Secrets." Dorothy and Margie went to the Regatta at the Country Club with Mr. Luce Jr. (son of proprietor of Elgin House) in his fast launch Mary Louise. She saw Homer Taylor and