Treatment of Eczema.

Alcohol is useful as antiparasitic and to relieve itching. Apply 90 per cent. alcohol twice daily to and around lesions before carrying out other local measures. Good results even in rebellious cases. Applicable in all forms of eczema except those with abundant watery discharge. Continue long after affection overcome, to prevent recurrence.—Monatsh. f. pr. Dermat.

Local treatment with heated air employed in 35 cases of eczema in infants, with good results. Applications made once daily for five to ten minutes; affected region then covered with olive oil. Strict dietetic measures also to be enforced.—Perlmann.
