When and How to Use Nitroglycerin—No. 1.

The general indications for the use of nitroglycerin are (1) to relieve symptoms of localized arteriosclerosis or arterial spasm in vitally important regions of the body, and, when there is pain due to contracted or diseased arteries, in other regions; (2) to reduce general high blood-pressure in selected cases, if its continuance threatens accidents to the cardiovascular apparatus; and (3) to clear the diagnosis.—*Cornwall; J. Girls drove to school, John took the milk this morning & then drew wood. Girls brought Cecil home from school with them. It is a terrible cold night, snowing & blowing something fierce. Aunt Bell & Lewis were here for a few minutes this afternoon
