Geriatric Aphorisms—No. 7.

The old man falls asleep at the sermon through excessive attention which brings on brain fag, not through inattention.

The recollection of early events comes unbidden; the newer events cannot be recalled by any effort of the will.—Nascher; Amer. Med.

Weather

A fine day

Temp.

John took Melba & went for her. He was drawing curtains then to night was down to shed Cecil. Leg was over & we gave him, the things for. Was shower. I did another basin washing. Dr. McLeay was coming to day but forgot to come
