

her she could get along without her, then weep as I helped her do a little wash this morning. I planted my tomato seeds after I got home but I wished I hadn't gone out as my tooth was very sore and I think the cold drink was not good for it. Rawlins

Wednesday March 4th

I did chores and had breakfast this morning and then lay down with the hot water bottle on my face and slept till noon. I'm not used to having any things so much the matter with me and I make a big fuss over what some people wouldn't pay much attention to, but my sore face made me feel tough. It is better to-night but still pretty sore. I didn't do much this afternoon but a few chores and wash the kitchen floor for Mary. Frank walked over to night before tea to see what was wrong as I told them I would be over to-day to go after wood or else go down and get Aunt and Aunt Alice, and it turned out a beautiful mill day. Mary wrote a note to them and we told Frank to tell Aunt & Aunt Alice that if it was fair I would go down in the morning after them. Mary made a cake and some cookies to-day and set bread. I mixed it stiff for her to-night.

Thursday March 5th

This has been another beautiful day although what wind there was came from the east. I went down this forenoon and brought Aunt & Aunt Alice out. We had a lovely visit although my face was pretty sore all the afternoon. They stayed to tea which we had early and I drove them down in time for the Lenten service to-night.

Friday March 6th

We all went down town for dinner to-day. The bus wasn't quite so crowded going down as we took the egg cart last night. We didn't get down till noon and I took the egg up after dinner. I just got 30th a dozen for them and Sam told me if I had been two hours earlier I would have got 32. Quint was at Aunt's for dinner and I walked up town with him, all the way up he was arguing against taking out life insurance. When I left him he went up to Dr. McLachlin's and I went down to Davis where I found Wiedreck the Canada Life agent so I sent him up to Dr. McLachlin's to interview Quint. Mary took Harry B. up to see the doctor this afternoon and he gave him a bottle of medicine to take. The Nibbles is delighted and takes his dose with great gusto. Lovely day.
