

Thursday June 23rd

Tom finished going over the corn field with the broad tooth cultivator and I harrowed it. We would have drilled it this afternoon but a heavy shower came up about noon and prevented us. Working on it some more today. Tom went down town after dinner & got some lumber to make a flat rack but they didn't have any thing suitable at the planing mill. He got some stuff to make some gates. I spent most of the afternoon painting on the veranda. Jack M. Bird and Albert were in this afternoon and I ordered another 1/2 ton of fertilizer from him. Mary drove Mrs. Lampkin down town this morning and left her at Mrs. Paterson's intending to call for her this afternoon but she was afraid the lane would be too greasy so I took Doc. over for Doc to drive down after her. Worked in the garden after tea till dark. Charlie shand down after coal for his brook.

Friday June 24th

Tom started to drill the corn this morning and I rolled ahead of him. He ran out of seed so I went down town with Mary before dinner and got some more. Tom started to plough the strip back of the barn where the mangos were last year. He finished drilling after dinner and I cross harrowed the field. He continued to plough after he finished drilling. I planted some more potatoes after dinner. Worked till dark in the garden to night. Dashed tired. Fine day and cooler.

Saturday June 25th

Tom finished ploughing the strip back of the barn and re-ploughed a bad piece of couch grass that came up along the ditch on the side hill that he ploughed early this spring. He also rolled down what he ploughed. I was late getting around this morning but managed to get over the little side hill once with Charlie Butters spring bath and intended going over it this afternoon with Shamus's broad tooth cultivator to cut the thistles but a heavy shower at noon prevented that scheme. I felt a little sick after dinner and slept very hard for an hour or two feeling loggy for awhile after I got up. So wet to do much but cleaned up the yard a little. Mary had very busy day hakin' with her new coal oil oven with which she is highly pleased. Tom spent afternoon white-washing his cellar and came over & milked to night. Mostly sunny, very windy and two or three heavy showers.
