

National City. on the way back near National City took a snap of a large pepper tree. it must have a spread of nearly 100 feet, also a couple of gnats of a couple of small horns. Bata couple of dozen eggs at a large white Leghorn chicken Ranch. at 40¢ a doz. the best we have tasted yet and the cheapest too Jan 13th. We drove to the foot of Market St. and on to the Coronada Ferry cost us 25¢ for the car and two passengers to cross. to Coronada the girls went free. we stopped at the park in the center of the place. it was very nice not many flowers out now. but there are all kinds of trees. even to Torrey pines, which they say only grow in one other place. we then drove on to the beach. around the large Coronada hotel a man that worked there said there were 150 guests there now. and next month it would likely be crowded room for about 600.
