Fineness of Silk.

The smallest-sized sewing machine silk manufactured measures about 2,000 yards, or over one and one-fourth miles, to the ounce. Even in the construction of this variety, sometimes 200 to 400 fibres of the material as originally spun by the silk worm are required. The vermiform artists which produce this beautiful material do not spin threads of uniform size. The smallest fibre of silk, as wrought by the worm into the exquisite structure of its cocoon, is so infinitely minute that every ounce of the manufactured thread is supposed to contain nearly 4,000 miles of this floss-like strand, and the puny animal sometimes elaborates a fibre of such marvelous tenuity that less than four pounds of the thread, avoirdupois, would reach around the world.

NIBBLES says Clarissa refused to marry Jones on account of his nose. It had a bridge that she couldn't get over.
