

of the road. from here we followed on down the coast a lot of small places El Segundo, Manhattan Beach, Hermosa Beach to Redondo Beach. which seemed to be just a place. from there we crossed across the point of land to the other side. on the way we went through Wilmington quite a large place and on to Long Beach and stayed for the night. this was St. Patrick's night. heard the fireworks from the hotel. went 3 places to get rooms.

march 18th in the morning we found we were only a block from the beach and the Park. Long Beach is a large city. must be 100,000 at least, and a great amusement center took a walk through the Park and to the beach and out on the long pier. took some snaps then drove on out Ocean Blvd some fine homes & after on this street to Seal Beach. stopped a couple of minutes but nothing here then across country to Santa Anna, then the same way back home
