felt rather my hand gently. A brilliant color. Dad & was shivering as he time had been would along in fact. I had a few drops of warm tea to get to bed. I a few and down top to check for ticks as the people. I later than from a drug store. I ran all day after the fever. I had a fever.

consecutive orders pushing straw to Army, Haley, Paul Lee, Cass, and Dick who were the mow, Army got called away to the telephone Paul Lee went to help in the mow. Cass got a head ache and Long skinned out so there was after a while only Haley and Dick in the mow and Essie Vyre and ^{Daddy} showing straw. I stood in one place for two or three hours with the balmy breath of the blower on my cheek and dust from the same about an inch thick (more or less) down my throat and lungs. When we filled up all over the cow stable we went out and Vyre took the blower and Haley, Daddy, and I stayed in the big bay. I came out of there about five and did not do anything after that but gasp for breath. it hard to take a long breath. Haley and Daddy stayed with it to the bitter end and when they came in they looked like niggers. Haley had his hair all the afternoon and his hair was as he had and Allan & Hollister Williams came over and stayed to tea. I had ham pretty well all day. to Day.

Friday August 25

I slept late this morning after dreaming I was threshing all night and just before I got up I heard one of the little chickens squeal and looking out saw a big rat had one by the leg. Dad came to kill it but it got away and the chicken died soon after. I was very late with my breakfast. Daddy, Emery and Dick went down town this morning with the truck and got back about noon with lumber for the stable door and glass for the stable windows and a few other things. Ace Williams came after his wheat and I helped him all day with it took one load to mill before dinner and thereafter Dick went the first time and Lila and I the second and the last he went alone.
Emery made the door for the drive house this afternoon and hung it. Daddy plowed the wheat ground that Emery plowed with Joe and Belle. Cousin Clare came over this morning and stayed all day. Lila came over with Emery and Daddy and stayed all night
