

in a mound for holes and Emery while digging around found an old blank of a spring back attached to a frog with a ring in it. He said he had often thought of digging but by finding them to wear a hole as to having to there were the water there. Emery dug up a little water with each one of them and then came home and took the camp up and the old man was here starting off with his hand and two valves. This was the old man's work here until before

Sunday August 20th Daddy drove my down to Sunday School this morning as he wanted to see if he could take Aunt Maude and Liba back to dinner with him and have Huby and Juin. Walk out but they could not come I jumped a usual and Juin went up behind the organ with me. I walked home to dinner where was assembled all of Emery's family in addition to the others all trying to squeeze up to the kitchen table.
After dinner Emery discovered an oil hole in the old wind mill head which when Dad oiled up the old thing went like a charm Daddy was bringing Ginger out to water and she jumped away from him into the old man's beam and caught herself quite badly having wrenching of a shoe. Daddy Emery Cecil Lige and the grey fitter and I all went back to the gulch to hunt for the spring Blakely was telling us about but could not find it. Then we went up ~~at~~ the mound where

Monday August 21st Emery came this morning and Herb worked together all day. We put the door on the box stall and end door on the horse stable. I painted more window sashes and swept down some of the cobwebs of the ceiling in the stable. We also put a new piece on the jerk rod of the wind mill in place of a rickety old leg-sore, which caused the mill to lose half a stroke.
Daddy ditched the ^{reminders of the} wheat ground this morning and went over it with the smoothing barrow this afternoon. I had a snooze for about an hour this afternoon and then wrote a little to Ray for his birthday tomorrow.
Neph came over this morning to bring us some sweet corn and again this after noon to tell Daddy the thrashers would if all's well be at his place tomorrow.
I rode Enah's wheel back after the cows tonight. Pretty warm today. I got a cold from E. Dewar to day.
