

Sunday March 4th

Mary felt tough to-day owing to getting too tired during the week and so she stayed in bed till 11:00 noon only getting up for a short time to have breakfast. I just chatted around all morning and read most of the after noon. The kids were out for a play. There was a very high S.W. wind all fore noon and this after noon it started to rain. I went out to let Bobbie's two blue birds, for a while and suddenly the sky got black and a terrific gale struck us from the west blinding sharp & cold without. It only lasted a few minutes and then settled down to snow which kept up for the remainder of the after noon. The little hurricane took all three shutters off the back porch so now it is full of snow. I went over and got Mabel about half past nine to night. The first of Mary's daffodils came out full to-day. Freezing quite hard to night.

Monday March 5th

Did a few chores and drove over home for awhile this morning and took the kids with me. Came home by Louis and got the eggs about 17 doz. I'm said he was up all night with the sow and she farrowed 8 pigs this morning but only has 3 left. Killed or stopped on them. She has business seems to be hoodwinked as we are concerned. This after noon we all drove down town and sold our eggs and I got a hair cut. So night ^{cold} wages.

Tuesday March 6th

I drove Mary & the kids down to the Donalds this morning and then went over with the car for Frank as he wanted it to go to a sale at Normandale this after noon. He drove me home again and we picked Mary up on the way home. I did a little brushing up around the orchard and chipped some of the limbs off the old ash that blew into the creek last summer. I then went over to Louis and helped him move the rack from the sleigh to the wagon and I measured up the orchard and back side hill for fence. It will take about 125 rods. The old sow only has 2 pigs left. Frank came back with the car about seven o'clock but took it back again to take Maude to the Picture show. Fine but cold wind.

Wednesday March 7th

Lou came over this morning with the rack and we loaded up all the remaining corn stalks and he took them over the. Frank ~~back~~ brought the car out and I drove back with him to look at a horse that Proper has for sale. My interest
