Gastric Aphorisms.

In stomach cramps of the aged think of arteriosclerosis. They occur after any indiscretion of diet or exercise, and are apt to radiate to the sternum and down the left arm.

In severe pain of the upper right abdominal quadrant not controlled by mild anodynes bear in mind perforation of the gallbladder, duodenum or stomach.

In membranous enteritis the more typical the membrane the lower in the colon is its origin.

Mucus from the small intestine is not seen macroscopically.
