

Sunday September 23rd

It rained quite hard this morning for a short time so Mary, Ted, and I drove down to Sunday school in the buggy. Euch & Ted drove Mexico down to Church and Dad drove Benty up to Church. Mary and I didn't go to Church but took Mexico home. We drove up to the Laws as Mary wanted to see Essie and we went down to Benty's for which Benty Ober was there getting dinner ready as Dad, Euch and Ted stayed there for dinner. I got ill I could stand of riding in the cart with Mexico when we got across the bridge so I got out and walked home. Mary and I had dinner by our selves and just got through with it when Hubby & Lila came over. Hubby was hungry after the walk so he had some thing to eat. After I got the bulls & calves watered we all went back to the gully to look for mushrooms and see the cattle & colts. We didn't find any mushrooms that were any good as some one had been there before us. Hubby was greatly taken with the colts. He & Lila just left before Dad & Ted got home and they of course were very disappointed to have missed her Lila especially. Euch didn't come home to tea but stayed at her mother's and played to night in Church. The Barwells brought her home after work. Mary and I worked at the Church books to night. We have to get the statements out this week so wanted to get every thing ready. Hubby said he and Lila went to church this morning and Lila is very strict with him and gets mad if he doesn't be have him self but she started the talking this morning. They sang "For those in peril on the sea" and Lila asked Hubby for whose benefit it was. Hubby said "I don't know. The Harding's girls were having a little sale yesterday" guess it's on that account. The Harding's did have a sale at which Euch bought half a dozen nice living-room chairs for 10 pieces. The Harding's have sold the place to Chart Woolley who is going to establish a dairy plant there and they are going out West to keep house for Harry. The cause of the hymn this morning was the Hobbs' departure for England yesterday. Fine, cool wind
