

Neiledge's as he fell the other day and paralyzed the nerve in his arm that is Colin's and Dad thought Uncle Waid would like to go out and see him. He said he enjoyed the drive but the Mr. Neiledges were not at home. Frank spent the after noon back in the gully with the Ryers's spearing frogs. He took them down to -right and sold them to Henry Buoy for ten cents a dozen. I got down in time for church to -right and had a little visit with Mary. Auntie Alice sent an invitation to her by me to come down to a tea party to -morrow night - but she said she couldn't come as there was another one on at Mrs. M. Queen's and she had to go. Auntie Alice told me this morning that Mrs. John Watts was dead but she didn't die till -two nights, but old Mrs. Watson Robert John's mother died yesterday. Rem's this morning. Carl & Claudy to -day.

Monday June 19th

Dad. went over to John Wees' right after breakfast and took him over a bag of oats & barley in return for a bag of oats we got some time ago. John Wees told him was hoping he wouldn't bring them for awhile as he was afraid now that he would get them up. The object of Dad's visit was to warn him not to breed any cows that had been to Ham Johnson's bull and to be very careful what cows he did breed. Dad. is afraid of contagious abortion; I don't think he did any thing much while he was gone. Frank took the team out and clipped up the sand knoll by Well and said he got the top of the grass pretty well cut up but it didn't affect the roots any. I weeded a little in the rose border. Dad. got home just before a big rain started which lasted all noon over. Frank went back to the gully this after-noon. Dad. helped Ench paper the panting ceiling. I read "The Gentle Shepherd till four o'clock when I started to do chores. Jonas came in and peddled some fish. To -night I read and I went down to Auntie Alice's party. She was rather distressed and the majority of boys over the girls. Geitha & Miss Jimmy couldn't come but Miss Herring was there and Elva. Ulla & Les's. and besides us four boys there was Lewis Woodson, George Clark & Douglas Spey but we had a good time. Quint. For whom the party was for especially seemed to enjoy himself in Miss Herring's company. Auntie got home from Brautford to -day.

Tuesday June 20th

Gardner Dare Co. came over this morning to get Dad. to go over and see Jack Martin's horses. so Dad. went over
